Jane's GEOINT – increase your understanding of the operational environment

For ground truth you need to look through the layers

Increase your understanding of the operational environment

With the increasing rise of territorial conflicts, border disputes, terrorism and civil unrest, the need to visualise content geospatially to increase situational awareness of a region has never been more important.

Jane's GEOINT delivers geospatial intelligence data and analysis to support military, government and defence organisations with their understanding of the operational environment.

Jane's GEOINT delivers geospatial intelligence data and analysis to enable you to:

- Reduce the demands on big data and quickly identify areas of focus
- Make decisions with confidence with geospatial layers that provide strategic and operational information
- Query Jane's content and analysis and display the results within a map interface
- Share and verify important content across your intelligence community

Quickly identify areas of focus
