Leverage Reliable Information to Make Strategic Business Decisions

The specialty chemicals business is an industry in transition. Several factors, including trade liberalization, the spread of process technologies, and shifting economics, are changing the industry's geographical focus. Meanwhile, competition is increasing and mature products are becoming commoditized, causing specialty chemicals manufacturers to depend on innovation as one of the few sources of competitive advantage. Clearly, understanding the supply and demand trends influencing specialty chemical markets has never been more important.

Gain Deep Insight into Specialty Chemical Markets

The Specialty Chemicals Update Program (SCUP) gives you the independent and unbiased business insight you need to better understand the specialty chemicals industry. Our collection of reports and the annual Specialty Chemicals Industry Overview offer in-depth coverage of specialty chemicals from a global perspective, while addressing regional differences and similarities across North America, Europe, China, and Japan. Each report, which examines either a market or functional area, analyzes key issues facing both suppliers and their end-use customers. The information offered by SCUP lets you focus on making strategic decisions rather than spending your time gathering, verifying, and analyzing data.

Subscribe today

While SCUP's individual reports are available for purchase, most clients benefit from an annual subscription to the service. A subscription offers insight into the highly interconnected specialty chemicals markets by providing access to:
