

Step-by-Step Guide to Dynamic Linking

Dynamic Linking by IHS Markit allows Engineering Workbench users to quickly find and see interconnections between all Codes and Standards documents. With IHS Markit's proprietary machine learning model, users can navigate industry to industry references with in-line hyperlinks and hover functions, instantly accessing a summary of or the full contents for that referenced Code or Standard.

1. Hover Over the Hyperlinks

When working within a Code or Standard document, there are hyperlinks to other Codes or Standards¹ referenced in that document. Hover over one of the dynamic hyperlinks to instantly view publishing details and a summary pertaining to the referenced Code or Standard.

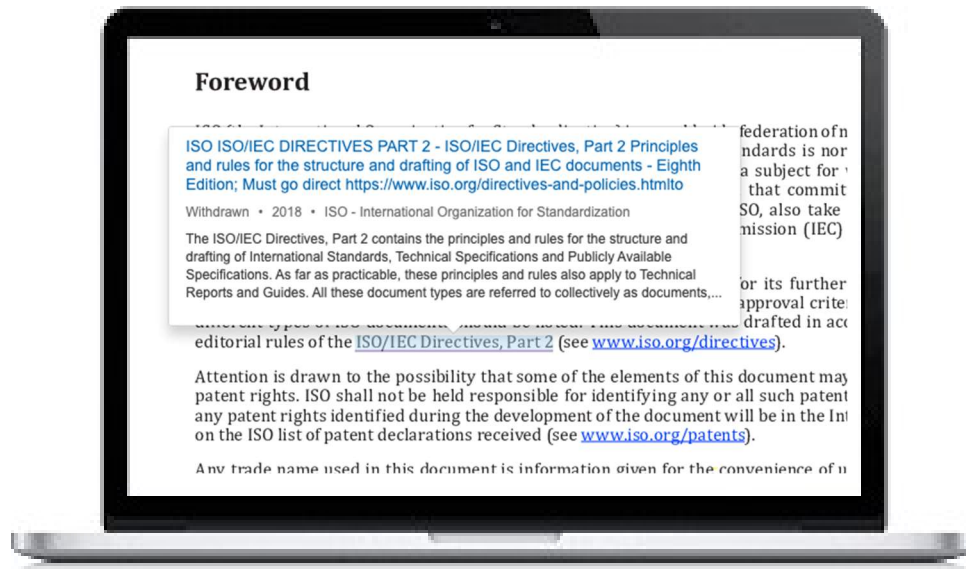

Your subscription determines whether you can see the entire contents or a summary of the dynamically linked code or standard. If your firm does not subscribe to a particular document you wish to view, contact your system administrator or see how to use the Shopping Cart feature by visiting the Help Center.

¹IHS Markit carries more than 150 million pieces of technical content from more than 370 Standards Developing Organizations (SDO) and over 30 leading publishers.

2. Access Full Content

When users click on one of the dynamic hyperlinks, a new window will be opened. Depending on the level of subscription, the window will display either the linked document or a summary of the document.
